1. Strengthen capacity of public and private institutions to prepare the workforce for the future of work and better enable them to take advantage of new technology and participate in the global labour market through closer cooperation with industries, improving technical and vocational education and training (TVET) standards, and using TVET to skill, upskill and re-skill our workers;

Increase participation of women, people with disabilities, elderly and youth in, including but not limited to, science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM)-related careers by adopting policies, initiatives and trainings on technological skills and digital platforms, for these groups to facilitate their access to decent work;
3. Encourage and support efforts of businesses, including micro, small and medium-sized enterprises, to invest in decent work according to international standards and to harness and manage technology which will improve the quantity and quality of jobs in existing and emerging sectors of employment;
4. Share best practices among ASEAN Member States on implementing responsive policies and initiatives to address the changing nature of employment relationships, including labour market information systems, to facilitate job searches by ASEAN's workforce;

5. Promote fiscally sustainable public and private national social protection initiatives in ASEAN Member States to uphold or improve our workers' well-being and improve their retirement adequacy;
6. Support efforts of employers' and workers' organisations in the development of necessary capabilities for collective representation and social dialogue to better represent and balance employers' and workers' interests in an evolving labour market landscape;
7. Strengthen tripartite relations to enable all partners to work collectively towards continued sustainable development of the ASEAN Community and creation of decent work for our workforce;
8. Enhance collaboration with relevant stakeholders, such as other ASEAN sectoral bodies, to facilitate a coordinated ASEAN response in preparing the ASEAN workforce and businesses; and
9. Increase cooperation between ASEAN and ASEAN's external partners, including the International Labour Organization, to facilitate sharing of models, best practices, and experiences in preparing workers to adapt to future jobs.
