Rural Development and Poverty Eradication

66. We noted with satisfaction the promotion of the complementarities between the ASEAN Community Vision 2025 and the United Nations 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. Guided by the principle of “leaving no one behind”, the Senior Officials’ Meeting on Rural Development and Poverty Eradication (SOMRDPE) has endorsed a study on financing for SDGs implementation. The study aims to gather information on country-specific finance landscape in order to establish an enabling policy environment that would align finance with sustainable development. This undertaking is in partnership with UNDP and China.

67. We continued to undertake initiatives that effectively address poverty while building ASEAN’s resilience. Through SOMRDPE, ASEAN Member States are currently building their capacities on delivering social protection through a community-driven approach. SOMRDPE is also developing regional and national policy recommendations on enhancing food security in the event of food price spikes.

68. We noted with satisfaction the robust partnership with civil society organizations on regional cooperation on rural development and poverty eradication. SOMRDPE has partnered with the Asian Partnership for the Development of Human Resources in Rural Areas (AsiaDHRRA) to implement the Framework Action Plan on Rural Development and Poverty Eradication 2016-2020, which is SOMRDPE’s five-year work plan. SOMRDPE has consistently engaged civil society organizations through the annual ASEAN GO-NGO Forum on Rural Development and Poverty Eradication.

Women

69. We noted with satisfaction the acceleration of advancement of the rights and welfare of women and girls in the region through a more purposive and programmatic regional cooperation. Through the ASEAN Committee on Women (ACW) and ACWC, ASEAN is steadily implementing the ASEAN Regional Plan of Action on the Elimination of Violence against Women in (ASEAN RPA on EVAW), which outlines actions at the regional and national levels aimed at eliminating all forms of violence against women and girls. Currently, ACW and ACWC are in the process of developing ASEAN guidelines on the collection and analysis of data on violence against women. The guidelines will reinforce the initiatives of ASEAN Member States on evidence-based policy and programme development by using prevalence and administrative data, among others, on violence against women.

70. We reaffirmed our commitment to mainstream a gender perspective in the three ASEAN Community pillars. Recognizing that gender is a cross-cutting issue, ASEAN, through ACW and ACWC, is pioneering the development of a strategy to engage the relevant ASEAN sectoral bodies to introduce a gender perspective in their respective scope of work.

71. We further reaffirmed our commitment to promote women economic empowerment and women entrepreneurship. Recognizing the economic potential of women in ensuring inclusive growth, ASEAN continues to provide women entrepreneurs with a platform to network with one another, and engage governments on a dialogue to develop business-friendly policies and regulations through the ASEAN Women Entrepreneurs Network (AWEN). ASEAN has also taken a cross-sectoral approach to effectively promote women entrepreneurship, through the initiatives of the ASEAN Committee on Women (ACW) and the ASEAN Coordinating Committee on Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (ACCMSME).

We also call upon developed country Parties to the UNFCCC to enhance support for on-going efforts to promote low-carbon and climate resilient cities in ASEAN such as the implementation of sustainable energy technology and early warning system to reduce impact of climate-related disasters. Given the importance of cities to the future growth of the ASEAN community and the welfare of its people, we reaffirmed our commitment to facilitate greater coordination among ASEAN cities to strengthen cities’ climate resilience. We noted the ongoing consultation at the ASEAN Working Group on Climate Change on the proposed ASEAN City Leaders on Climate Resilience initiative as a multi-stakeholder platform for city leaders to exchange experience, share successful approaches and initiate collaborative action on climate resilience.
